FIRE TUESDAY CUTTING SCRAPE.

Destroyed Suburban Grocery of Mrs. A. M. Miller.

The grocery store of Mrs. Alonzo M. Miller, just outside the city limits on East Ninth street, was destroyed Tuesday at noon. The blaze originated in the roof and the fire spread rapidly. The fire department attempted to go to the fire, but did not have enough hose to reach it from the nearest plug, about 1350 feet. The loss was total, and but little of the stock was saved. The house was owned by Mrs. M. D. Sybert. There was some insurance on both building and contents. The loss was something over $2,000.

H. L. Oakes Uses a Big Knife
On a Man Named Whitey.

H. L. Oakes, who lives on South Virginia street, is in jail on a charge of cutting with intent to kill, his victim being a man named Whitey, who lives on 19th street. The trouble between the men arose over the attentions of Whitey's son to Oakes' daughter. Mrs. Whitey had a warrant issued Monday for the arrest of Oakes, charging that he cursed her. Tuesday night the men met and a quarrel resulted and they came together near Eighteenth street, Oakes using a bad looking knife, which he used with telling effect on Whitey. The worst cuts are a gash in his side extending back under his shoulder blade and two cuts on his neck.

Oakes was arrested by the police and turned over to the county authorities. He is awaiting the result of Whitey's injuries.

Many ministers in the large cities preached on the Astor Place wed-

Chicago, used this vigorous language:

"Like the cuckoo, which lays its eggs in another bird's nest, the priest declare, the young girls who cor-well-to-do married men are commercial vampires who rob the rightful owner of her nest.

"What is the woman who makes merchandise of herself but a human monster?" he asks. Beattie murdered his wife. Better man should kill an innocent wife than immolate her in the divorce court. Beattie was merciful to his young wife.

"The 'other woman' is typical of the woman in every divorce case.
She is a muderess. She is a commercial vampire, who in cold blood enters the sanctuary of a happy home and drives out the wife to despair and death."

Are They Married?

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 11—Whether a groom is entitled to his bride without practically all of the ceremony performed, except the formal "I now pronounce you man will be thrashed out in the local court tomorrow as the result of an interrupted wedding today when wealthy parents of Miss Effie Mc-Minn from Sardis, Miss., caused the detention of their daughter by officers of the juvenile court.

Jess Lee Varner, the groom, eloped from the plantation of the young girl's parents early today.
They advised with Circuit Judge Malone on arrival here, and a li-

had all been said with the exception of pronouncing them man and wife.
Then the officers appeared, accom-

The groom applied for habeas corpus proceedings, which will be heard tomorrow.

HE DIDN'T LIKE THE PUFFS

Street Car Passenger's Explanation of His Refusal to Give His Seat to Woman.

A young woman entered the car and a man near the door started mechanically to give her his seat. Then he looked at her, changed his mind and settled back, leaving her to stand.

His companion smiled. "Think she looks able to stand, eh? Suffragette, perhaps?"

"No, it isn't that. It's those infernal puffs. I'll be—blamed if I'll give up my seat to a woman who has no better sense than to go around with a hair mattress on her head. I have some respect for a suffragette who wears her own hair, but absolutely none for puffs and rats and other falsities that some women seem to think make them look better. They don't. Every woman can find some way of dressing her own hair which is becoming to her. Rats and false hair are, to me, an evidence of non-intelligence. I like to be chivalrous toward a woman who is worthy of the name, but a woman discredits her sex with such monstrosities as that girl carries on her head. She can't be neat. The process itself is not neat. If she were a South African I might not expect anything better of her, but of an American girl I do. No, perhaps I can't do much toward reforming the sex, but at least I have the satisfaction of showing my disapproval.

Who Was There That You Knew

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was hooked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs.
It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

IT WAS "DELIGHTFUL POISON"

Pretty Legend of the Origin of Wine in Persia, Where It First Was Made.

The making of wine is said to have originated with the Persians, who discovered the process quite by accident. One of their earliest kings, Jemshedd, who, it is said, was only five or six generations from Noah, was the discoverer, or rather a woman of his household was.

"He was immoderately fond of grapes," says the narrative, which is found in Sir John Malcolm's "History of Persia," and desired to preserve some, which were placed in a large vessel and lodged in a vault for future use. When the vessel was opened the grapes had fermented and their juice in this state was so acid that the king believed it must be poisonous.

"He had some vessels filled with it and 'Poison' written upon each. These were placed in his room. It happened that one of his favorite ladies was affected with nervous headache; the pain distracted her so much that she desired death. Observing a vessel with 'Poison' written on it, she took it and swallowed its contents. The wine, for such it had become, overpowered the lady, who fell down into a sound sleep and awoke much refreshed.

"Delighted with this remedy, she repeated the doses so often that the monarch's poison was all drunk. He soon discovered this and forced the lady to confess what she had done. A quantity of wine was made and Jemshedd and all his court drank of the new beverage, which from the circumstance that led to its discovery is to this day known in Persia by the name of Zeher-e-khoosh, or 'the delightful poison.'"

CYNIC REACHES THE ALTAR

There the Bride Consents to Take Him, Just as He Was Afraid She Would.

Price is really quite an ordinary, primitive sort of person at heart, but he has a reputation among us for unconventional ideas and a decadent point of view. He referred to his engagement as "this regrettable entanglement," and, when he asked me to be his best man he took care to write that "a lady having proposed marriage to him and having shown no signs of relenting, he supposed it was up to him to go through the solemn process of giving his formal consent to the autocratic designs." I agreed, of course, for we all felt that Price, when he was married, would have to give up saying that sort of thing, and, therefore, one of us ought to be near by to take a note of his last utterance.

The great day came and the bride in her white Je-ne-sais-quoi looked charming, the bridegroom pale, but prepared, and the parson much as usual. With the help of a little stage management from a discreet curate we succeeded, at the appointed time, in being at the chancel steps; the bride's father, the bride, Price and myself, in the customary formation.

"Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" asked the parson of Price, and I thought for a second that he was going to seize his opportunity and make his great remark then. But no; he merely, as he would have himself described it, politely acquiesced.

"Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" asked the parson of the bride. "I will," said she.

"Ah!" whispered Price in my ear, "I was afraid she would."—Punch.

Not Needed.

A man recently acquired a motor-car. For its proper accommodation he built a shed near his house, and, when the structure was completed, a party of friends, who were invited to inspect it, noticed that, though quite small, the shed was a two-story building.

They wanted to know what he intended to keep in the second story. The owner's reason was not satisfactory, but his wife revealed the reason for the second story.

"You see," she said, "the second story was intended for a hay-loft, and it wasn't until the thing was built that Henry and I realized that a motor-car doesn't eat hay."

Monkey as a Murderer.

Peasants living in the valley of the Neesles are at present in a state of terror concerning a monkey which escaped from a menagerie some miles away.

The animal has been at liberty for several months, and every one talks in dread of the animal's ferocious exploits. It is credited with the murder of two women, stealing various articles and eating children alive. Innumerable battues have been made in the hope of capturing the monkey, but so far it has succeeded in eluding all pursuers.—Paris Correspondence London Daily Mail.

Tin Used in Weighting Silk.

A chemist has recently analyzed a sample of a silk dress that was submitted to him by a lady. He found that it contained only a fraction over 28 per cent. of silk, and as much tin was found in it as that present in poor tin ores from Cornwall. The tin occurs in the so-called weighting of the silk. The chemist states that he at once realized the fact that the silk dresses worn by the ladies in London, taken together, would represent a Cornish tin mine of very fair quality.—London Mail.

EDISON AND TRUST MAGNATES.

The following anecdote was related last week of Thomas A. Edison. A meeting of directors had been held a few days before at his Orange laboratory. The conversation turned on the recent indictments against the trusts. Edison mentioned that he had been present at a dinner of "captains of industry" some time ago. One of the directors said:

"Edison, how was it you were invited to dine with that crowd?"

He replied without a moment's hesitation:

"Oh, I suppose it was to dilute the company."—Harper's Weekly.

CUTTING.

Putton-Ayres—I pursue the ideal. Miss Keen—You are a good many laps behind, aren't you?

Hairpin Industry a Large One.

One of the greatest of the world's manufacturing industries is at Painesville, England. There are no fewer than 300 persons employed in turning out these trifles of the boudoir, and hundreds of automatic machines are in constant operation transforming miles of wire into tons of finished pins.

THEATER IN PAPAL PALACE.

The palace of the popes at Avignon is known to all the world. For a long time it was used as barracks, and thereby suffered very considerably by alterations and constructions. Much of the interior decoration was damaged in putting up partitions, etc. Then a better state of things arose. The French government had the place restored, and this was done with discretion, and the building was placed in the custody of the municipality of Avignon. The civic fathers seem to wish to turn their trusteeship to account, and it seems that they are in negotiation with a theatrical manager to have performances in the historic building. When weather permits the representations will be given in the grounds, but in inclement seasons the halls are to be used for entertainments.

WHY HE USED THE BAD WORD

Little Matt Explained That the Two Pigs He Was Driving Got His Goat.

Matt Perkins, engine driver on the New York Central, thought his little farm, out near Peekskill, wouldn't be complete without pigs. So he bought a couple and had them sent out, much to the dismay of Willie, his oldest boy, who tearfully protested that the family would be disgraced if their acquaintances found they kept pigs.

But the father was obdurate, and assigned to Matt, Jr., his six-year-old and youngest hopeful, the task of caring for the pigs. This has proved a hard task, and little Matt has been having his troubles during the hot weather.

One day the pigs, being pigs, roamed far afield. Mattie, rounding them up, drove them past the veranda, where his mother happened to be. Mattie was talking to the pigs in no uncertain terms, and it must be confessed he used a word which he really should not. Where he got it no one knows.

The mother promptly called him to task, and Mattie, having panned in the pigs, returned, hot and red of face, to the veranda.

"Mattie," said his mother, sternly, "I shall have to punish you. I heard you say a naughty word."

"Well, I guess I did," was the lad's penitent rejoinder, "but you see, mamma, them pigs jest got my goat."

—New York Herald.

WHY THEIR PARENTS DIED

Applicants for Life Insurance Give Some Astonishing Information in Filling Out Blanks.

Naturally applicants for life insurance may be expected to put as good a face as possible on the reports concerning relatives and the causes of their deaths, but they sometimes make rather amusing statements. Some one has collected a few of these which were originally published in the British Medical Journal:

"Mother died in infancy." "Father went to bed feeling well and the next morning woke up dead." "Grandfather died suddenly at the age of one hundred and three. Up to this time he had fair to reach a ripe old age."

"Applicant does not know cause of mother's death, but states that she fully recovered from her last illness." "Applicant has never been fatally sick."

"Applicant's brother, who was an infant, died when he was a mere child." "Grandfather died from gunshot wound caused by an arrow shot by an Indian."

"Applicant's fraternal parents died when he was a child." "Mother's last illness was caused from chronic rheumatism, but she was cured before death."

"Father died suddenly; nothing serious."—Journal of the American Medical Association.

Syrian Peasant Superstition.

A law suit for libel brought by an apothecary in Pollau, in Syria, against a young peasant reveals an extraordinary superstition prevalent among the country people. The belief that apothecaries and doctors have the right to kill at least one man and one woman every year in order to make medicines out of their bodies.

An accidental movement of the apothecary at Pollau, Herr Kobermayer, when giving medicine to a boy named Putz led the latter to believe he was going to be killed. He ran away but got such a fright that he fell ill. The inhabitants believed his story and boycotted the apothecary, who was at length compelled to prosecute. Putz was sentenced to fourteen days imprisonment, but his parents, who had spread the story, were acquitted on the ground that they had acted in good faith.

Jollying the Parents.

"Why did you chuck that baby under the chin?" asked the man. "It is such an ugly little sinner."

"That's why I chucked him," said the woman. "I always pet the ugly babies. Pretty babies get so much coddling from strangers that their parents take it as a matter of course. It is the fathers and mothers of homely babies who appreciate attention. Didn't you notice how pleased that couple looked? I don't suppose anybody ever petted their baby before except themselves. They'll think a lot more of the youngster after this."

Death Preferred.

A. Stirling Calder, the Philadelphia sculptor, was reminded at the Franklin Inn club, apropos of the Fourth of July and Liberty, or a story about the great Bartholdi statue in New York bay.

"An eminent English critic," he said, "sailing into New York bay for the first time, saw Bartholdi's colossal work and said:

"Is that Liberty?"

"Yes," a friend replied.

"Then," said the critic, 'give me death.'"

Cigar Stumps.

Gather the cigar stumps about the house and place them in a can until enough are accumulated. Soak them in tepid water a day, sprinkle this on plants. It prevents worms and bugs infesting them. Take the wet tobacco and sprinkle over the carpet and sweep well. This takes up dust and keeps away moths. Also crumble stumps fine and put them in hen nests to keep away chicken lice. Instead of buying tobacco stems for the same purpose.

AMUSEMENTS

Not since "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was first produced has there been such a heart-stirring Melodrama as "The Night Rider," to be presented by the Rex Amusement Company at Holland's Opera House on Monday Night, September 18.

As indicated by the title, the play deals with the outrages committed by that lawless band of men whose operations in the tobacco district are too well known to be commented on here.

The author, who is thoroughly familiar with the outrages committed, has hit upon the idea of presenting not only the picture of the forms of violence as perpetrated by this gang, but he also shows the means to which they resort in order to gain political power and safety for their members at the hands of the law.

HIGH SCHOOL

Is Lining Up A Good Strong Football Team.

Football practice at the High School has begun in earnest. At a meeting of the Athletic Society of the school it was voted to have a team this year and Logan Green—by all odds the All-Western Kentucky-High School end for last year—was elected temporary captain. A squad of some twenty-five men have reported every afternoon this week for practice, and indications are that a good team will be turned out from this bunch. Of the new men Rives, Cook, Waller, Twyman, Will Cate, Walker, Sutton, Ware, Gary and Higgins are showing up especially well. Will Cate, who was unable to play last year, is decidedly the best half-back developed in the school since 1909. The team, tho rather light, is fast and gritty, and as full of spirit as the Champion team of '09. Profs. Long and Clarke as well as some of the old alumni, are taking an interest in the team and, provided a couple of heavy line men can be developed, a much better team than last year's can be presented. An all Southern Vanderbilt Star has been engaged to coach the team and will arrive in a few days to take charge of the work. A good heavy schedule is being arranged.

Eyelash Finish.

GLASS CONFUSING TO THEM

Birds and Fish Do Not Easily Learn That They Cannot Penetrate It.

A correspondent recently reported what he described as the "curious freak" of a blackbird flying against a parlor window many times at the same spot.

Such an incident is not uncommon. Birds have been known to fight for hours at a time, day after day, with their own image reflected in a pane of glass, pecking and fluttering against the pane and quite exhausting themselves in their fury to demolish the supposed rival. It is another instance of how the arts of our civilization corrupt and confuse the birds. It is the same with fishes.

Darwin tells a story of a pike in an aquarium separated by plate glass from fish which were its proper food. In trying to get at the fish the pike would often dash with such violence against the glass as to be completely stunned. It did this for more than three months before it learned caution. Then when the glass was removed the pike would not attack those particular fishes, but would devour others freshly introduced.

It did not at all understand the situation, but associated the punishment it had received not with the glass, but with a particular kind of fish. Darwin's American monkeys proved themselves more "knowing." When they cut themselves once with any sharp tool they would not touch it again or else would handle it with the greatest caution.

Thus they gave evidence of the simpler forms of reason of which monkeys are no doubt capable, but birds are evidently lacking in reasoning powers.—The Scotsman.

TALES OF THE TELEPHONE

Its Exploitation in England Seemed Impossible Until Queen Victoria Became Interested.

The United States has eight telephones for every hundred of population, while no other country has half as many. Following the establishment on a solid basis of the American telephone system work for European exploitation was early begun. The results were hardly encouraging.

Five-eighths of the British rights were purchased for $500 by a Providence man, says the National Magazine. After working in London four months he could not find any one who would put a shilling in the telephone.

An English review said of it: "The telephone is little better than a toy. It amuses the English, but is inferior to the well established system of air tubes."

The victory was won at last by Kate Field, who sang "Kathleen Mavourneen" over the telephone to Queen Victoria. The queen was delighted, asked Bell if she might buy two telephones, and it was not long before all England was interested. An exchange with ten wires was opened in London, and in April, 1879, Theodore Vail sent an order to the factory in Boston in his terse, characteristic way: "Please make 100 hand telephones for export trade as early as possible."

Have Grave Garments Ready.

In an account of the death, at the age of one hundred and four, of Lucy Hickey at Gloucester there appeared the interesting item that she was buried in a shroud which she had made for herself many years ago. "This may look strange to most people," said a resident of the East side, "but not to the old-fashioned Jews. I am sure that if you go through any of the tenement houses in this part of the city you will find in the majority of homes the shrouds of all men and women who are married. It is an old custom to have the grave garments ready, and with some of the people it is considered a shame not to be properly provided in case of death. The garments are usually of fine texture and invariably 'hand sewed.'"

The $13 Fine.

Courtrooms are not free from superstition, a lawyer remarked. "For instance, it seems to be an unwritten law of the bench that nobody shall ever be fined $13. In my seventeen years' experience at the New York bar I have seen offenders fined nearly every other amount from $1 to $1,000, but no judge has ever defied fate by imposing a $13 fine.

"Nothing but respect for superstition prevented him from doing it. It was the logical fine. Several times I have labored in the lost cause of unfortunate clients whose fine from the standpoint of damages inflicted should have been $13, but the judge had not the hardihood to name it; he always undershot or overshot the mark and made $12 or $14."

No Escape.

"These New York doctors and dentists put up a game on their patients that makes the hen-and-egg proposition seem as easy as A, B, C," said the man who complained that he hasn't been "feeling just right."

"The other day I consulted a doctor. He said he could do nothing for me till I got my teeth fixed, so my digestion would improve, but when I went to the dentist he recommended he sent me back to the doctor because it wasn't worth while to work on my teeth until my general system got toned up, so they caught me coming and going."

TIRED OF "TRIAL" MARRIAGE

Colored Man Fell into the Trap and Had Nothing But Tribulation.

"T'anky, sah; 't'anky!" gratefully said a ramshackle-looking colored citizen who had percolated into the office of a prominent attorney of Polkville, Arkansas. "And dis yuh am what yo' kin do for muh, cuhnel, if yo' please; I wants to git dis trial marriage dat I's into busted up so's I kin git out'n it ag'in."

"Trial marriage?" echoed the legal luminary.

"Yeeeah! Dat's what it's done been—a trial—furn de beginnin' twell plumb yit! Trial, sah—trial and tribulation!—all de time! And I knowed how 't'would be befo' I got into de trap. Didn't want to marry, nohow; allus was un-skeered o' de marryin' notion, and now—"

"Well, then, why did you marry if you didn't want to?"

"Who?—me? Eh—kase I hatter, sah! Hatter do it; dat's why! Dar wa'n't no way 'round it! 'twas de law! When dat 'ar yaller lady fell into de creek at de picnic an' I plunged in an' drug her out at de risk o' muh life, right dar, sah, I got up ag'in de law—de marry-law! De young white men told me 'bout it, soon 's dey found out what I'd done; hadn't uh-told me I'd uh-gone 'bout muh bidness like a fool twell I landed in de penitentiary for muh ignunce. Dey done told me what I was 'bleeged to do—man saves a 'oman fum drownin' he's sho' gotter marry her. Fo'ced to do it, sah, an' I done did it. An' now, cuhnel, for goodness' sake won't yo' please tell muh how to git out'n de scrape? Kin I git a divo'ce, or suppin', or must I take de lady down to de creek whuh I drug her out, an' th'ow her in ag'in?"—Tom P. Morgan, in Puck.

FATTENER OF SPRING POETS

Farmer Took Them Lean and Mourning and Taught Them Life is Worth Living.

"That feller, settin' on the fence yonder," said the local historian of rural life, "has plowed more spring poets than any farmer in the settlement."

"Plowed them?"

"Yes; learn't 'em how to plow—how to run a straight furrow and manage a Georgia mule. Plowed 'em, an' fattened 'em, and made 'em know that life's worth livin'. They come loadin' round, lean as a razor-back shorn, an' hungry an' lonesome, singin' songs 'bout trees an' flowers, an' cowbells, an' cool grass, an' Lord knows what, an' that feller takes 'em in an' astonishes 'em with three meals a day—lets 'em hang round easy, an' rest up for a week, mebbe, then puts 'em to plowin', with hoels on the side for recreation, an' before you know, they're too fat to sing!"

"You see, these here poet-fellers never do none o' that melancholy writin' or 'singin', as they call it, 'cept when they're short on vittles, an' as holler as a dead tree; then they feel that the world owes 'em a living, but they ain't gittin' it, an' midnight owls can't beat 'em at complainin'. But you jest work 'em an' fatten 'em, an' there's change in their dispositions an' life looks as bright as a torchlight procession to 'em. 'Stidder singin' 'bout beautiful trees, they git healthy exercise cuttin' 'em down, an' they soon find that a breakfast of ham an' eggs is fur an' away ahead of rose-leaves an' dreams."

"Here come two new ones—they lean-lookin' chaps, climbin' the fence. Watch that farmer git 'em!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Down Where It's Hot.

The deepest hole in the world up to date is the boring begun ten years ago at Czuchow, Silesia, with the object of attaining a depth of 2,500 meters, and which has now reached a depth of 2,240 meters (7,349 feet). The bore is 44 centimeters in diameter at the top, and diminishes progressively to five centimeters. Measurements of temperature have been made regularly. At 2,220 meters the temperature is 83.4 degrees C. (182 degrees F.). This gives a "geothermal degree" (amount of descent corresponding to a rise of temperature of 1 degree C.) of 31.8 meters. The change of temperature does not proceed uniformly. In fact, an interesting "temperature inversion" occurs between the depths of 640 and 730 meters, where the temperature actually falls, with descent, about two degrees. —Scientific American.

Might Have Been Worse.

A clerk in a Washington street hotel says the Boston Traveler, tells this story: "My first hotel job was in a Texas city. One morning a guest who had been celebrating unwisely the night before swayed up to the desk and asked for some information. His name was Colonel Hawkins, and he was the soul of politeness under all circumstances. And this morning he was looking worried. 'Frank,' he whispered, 'my memory of last night, I regret to say, sah, is pretty hazy. Confidentially, now—what did I do?' 'Colonel,' said I, 'you got drunk and shot a man.' 'Anything else?' 'Gee, I don't know about enough.' 'It's unfortunate, yes, sah. But I was afraid I had insulted somebody.'"

MUST NOT TAKE ANY RISKS

Lincoln Beachey's Story Shows That It is Same in Aviation as in Love.

Lincoln Beachey, after his flight over Niagara Falls in a biplane was congratulated on his daring by a reporter.

"But I wasn't daring," the aviator said. "I put my machine only to such ordeals as I knew it could withstand. In flying, as in love, we must run no risks."

He laughed softly.

"I know," he said, "a young woman about to wed who decided, at the last moment, to test her sweetheart. So, selecting the prettiest girl she knew, she said to her, though she knew it was a great risk:

"I'll arrange for Jack to take you out tonight—a walk on the beach in the moonlight, a lobster supper and all that sort of thing—and I want you, in order to put his fidelity to the proof—to ask him for a kiss."

"The other girl laughed, blushed and assented. The dangerous plot was carried out. Then, the next day, the girl in love visited the pretty one and said anxiously:

"Well, did you ask him?"

"No, dear."

"No? Why not?"

"I didn't get a chance. He asked me first."

MIRACLE IN THE MELONS

Where Do Those in Oklahoma Get the Water in a Season of Drought?

Bishop Quarle of the Methodist Episcopal church spoke at a camp-meeting, and referred to miracles about which people talk so much. He said down in Oklahoma they have not had a good ground-soaking for two years, nor have they had any dew on the ground for many a long morning. The crops are parched and the fruit grows pale. But the watermelons come up, verdant and rotund, and filled with water.

Where does the water come from? There is your miracle. How is it possible for that great, juicy core to come out of that parched ground? Talk about turning water into wine, why, here is a case where you turn a dry clod into a honeycomb. There is a big red-cored watermelon, gouge the heart out of it, stuff the laughing mouth with it, and then philosophize to your heart's content about the impossibility of that hard, dry soil, in which there is not enough moisture to give a drink to a flea.

How much do you philosophize on this miracle? Not at all. You just eat the miracle, make it part of your joy, and thank the good Lord that this is still an age of miracles.

Music by Electricity.

The "telharmonium," invented by Dr. Thaddeus Cahill, furnishes what is called "electric music," not merely as a transmitter and imitator, but as direct producer of musical tones by means of alternating electric currents. By combining these currents in different ways the operator at the keyboard produces different qualities of tone. Dr. Cahill has recently made improvements which render the instrument capable of producing all sorts of entirely new tones of its own, while its imitation of trumpets, horns, viols and violins may be so perfect as to deceive even the practiced ear of a musical hearer. A single receiver, it is said, responds satisfactorily to any sound from deepest bass to highest treble, and to a single note of pure tone to a full chord of composite tones.

The Cry of the Guinea.

City folk visiting country neighbors where guinea fowl are kept have often wondered at the cry of those pretentious creatures. Probably no other member of the feathered tribes emits a cry as exasperating to human listeners as that of the guinea fowl. The average man rarely hears it without secretly longing to throttle the throat from which it came.

Yet it has its uses. Guinea fowl are the policemen of the poultry yard. They serve as guards to give other fowl warning of the approach of danger, whether it be in the form of thieves, dogs, hawks or crows. The cry of the guinea is said to be terrifying to hawks and other predatory birds, and it has prevented many a raid upon tempting flocks of poultry. But the fact remains that it is an affront to the human ear.

Incomparable Old Maids.

"Her education in youth was not much attended to, and she happily missed all the train of female garniture which passeth by the name of accomplishments. She was tumbled early, by accident or Providence, into a spacious closet of good old English reading, without much selection or prohibition, and browsed at will upon their fair and wholesome pasturage. Had I twenty girls they should be brought up in exactly that fashion. I know not whether their chance in wedlock might not be diminished by it, but I can answer for it maketh (if worst comes to worst), most incomparable old maids!"—From Essays of Elia.

Flies And Bunts.

Paducah and Cairo will play a post season series of five games beginning Sept. 23. During the season Paducah has won 9 and Cairo 8 of the 17 games played. The money will go to the Paducah players who worked a month without pay.

Glass pitched great ball in the first game with Henderson Saturday, allowing only 4 hits in 12 innings.

The Hoppers will fight hard for first place as they do not want to play a championship series but want the credit of winning the pennant without it. Fulton will fight equally as hard and the six games to be played between the two teams should be worth traveling some distance to see.—Vincennes Capital.

Aggie Grant, the new manager of the Terre Haute Central league club, will visit the Kitty in the next two weeks for promising material for next year's team. He will look over Johnson and Beasley of Hopkinsville and may also take a look at Jones of Paducah and Byrd of Vincennes.
"Bill" Everett and Bobbie Green are also said to be on his list and Catcher Huhn of Hopkinsville is another who will be inspected.—Capital.

At a meeting of the Henderson
baseball team Monday night at Hotel Kingdon it was decided to accept the challenge of Manager Nairn, of the Hopkinsville team, for a series of four post-season games to be played here on the 23rd and 24th. The winner is to get 60 and the loser 40 per cent.,

and if the games tie the proceeds will be split.—Henderson Journal.

Gracefully Said.

It is no discredit to be beaten by a team such as Hopkinsville sent to Henderson.

They are almost fast enough for the bigger leagues. They are clever, consistent players, hard hitters and what was especially noticed during their visit here, they are gentleman ly fellows who took the umpire's decisions with good grace, regardless of how it looked to them.

Henderson fans have nothing to complain of when they see 1 to 0 and 2 to 1 games with a team like Hopkinsville. There is nothing in the rule book which gives us a license to win all the games. The "Hens" have done well and they are entitled to encouragement to the end of the season—granting, of course that strict discipline is maintained off the diamond and the players give us the best there is in them.—Henderson Journal.
